

it. It would cost <sup>say</sup> $3000. It could raise if tried.
I think, though I wouldn't <sup>not</sup> please myself, from new sources! But, in — I should have to learn from you, <sup>August</sup> what you would not object to having said of you I should, if permitted, talk of you before city, gentlemen
discrimination,
to be remembered, knowledge influence of note of "the card of criticism" that from dear Pillsbury has canted about, (not knowing that a assault was to be sent to any battery is his efforts

without discrimination
every one to approach it.
that is of it.
you are for the
James M. W.C.

in the popular mind! - tho' less than we would desire, how much greater than we thought. There is need now, of an embassy between the Government & the people, each being a little better than the other thinks. Just fancy me to be the people, conveying my desire to the Government that all distinctions of colour shall be by it annulled, - I ask yourself where shall
"be the people" and our Ambas-

[illegible]

Such a Stone returned as not to send a deputation to a set of tumbling officers who are really most anxious to know what they shall do; are at them very wit's ends.

What you should say as ambassadors, would sink deep, however the surface might seem trampled at the moment. The object would be, not to anger or disturb them — but to sympathize, & help them <sup>to do their duty</sup> in the terrible position they are in.
I think the slaves will have a charge against us if it be not tried. The bare idea that that the Ex. Com had sent such an embassy (a private one) would bring money to sustain